

douce and salt, and messe the tartlet<sup>9</sup> i dish<sup>9</sup> & helde y
the sewe<sup>9</sup> ponne.

Pynnonade<sup>z</sup>.

xx
II. XI.

Take Almand<sup>9</sup> iblañched and drawe hem sūdell thicke<sup>a</sup> with gode broth oþ with waī and set on the fire and seeþ it, cast þto zolk<sup>9</sup> of ayreñ ydrawe. take Pyn<sup>9</sup> yfryed i oyle oþer in grece and þto white Powdō douce, fug<sup>9</sup> and salt. & colō it wiþ alkenet a lytel.

Rofee<sup>b</sup>.

xx
II. XII.

Take thyk mylke as to fore welled<sup>c</sup>. cast þto fug<sup>9</sup>
a gode porciōn pyn. Dates ymynced. canel. & powdō gyng<sup>9</sup> and seeþ it, and alye it with flōs of white Rofis, and flō of rys, cole it, salt it & messe it forth. If þ wilt in stede of Almañde mylke, take fwete crem<sup>9</sup> of kyne.

Cormarye<sup>d</sup>.

xx
II. XIII.

Take Colyandre<sup>c</sup>, Caraway smale grōnden, Powdō
of Pep and garlec ygrōnde i rede wyne, medle alle y heide. Cast.

<sup>z</sup> Pynnonade. So named from the Eynes therein used.

<sup>a</sup> sūdell thicke. Somewhat thick, thickish.

<sup>b</sup> Rofee. From the white rotes therein mentioned. See N<sup>o</sup> 41.
in Mi. Ed. but N<sup>o</sup> 47 there is totally different.

<sup>c</sup> welled, f. wiled; directed.

<sup>d</sup> Cormarye. Quære.      <sup>e</sup> Golyandre. Coriander.