

166 Pfalme 94. CANTVS. Tho. Rauens. B. of M.

Lord thou dost reuenge all vvrong. that office longs to thee.
Sith vengeance doth belong to thee declare that all may see.

Banqor Tune. TENOR, or Playnsong.

Lord thou dost reuenge all vvrong. that office longs to thee :
Sith vengeance doth belong to thee declare that all may see.

- Sith vengeance doth belong to thee declare that all may see.

| 2 Set forth thy selfe, for thou of rightthe earth dost iudge and guide :Revvard the proud and men of might,according to their pride.       | Can Jacobs God this vnderstandtush, no he cannot see.3 O folke vniwise and people rudesome knowledge now discern :Yet fooles among the multitudeat length begin to learne. |
| 3 How long shall vicked men bearevwith lifting vp their voyce ? (svvayHow long shall vicked men I say,thus triumph and reioyce ?           | 9 The Lord vvhich made the eare of manhe needs of right must heare :He made the eyes, all things must thenbefore his sight appeare.  |
| 4 How long shall they vwith brags burstand proudly prate their fill : (outShall they reioyce that be so stout,vvhose vvorke are euer ill ? | 10 The Lord doth all the world correct,and make them vnderstand :Shall he not then your deeds detect :how can you scape his hand ?   |

| 5 Thy flock O Lord, thine heritagethey spoyle and vex full sore :Against thy people they doe ragestill daily more and more.  | 11 The Lord doth know the thoughts ofhis heart he seeth full plaine : (manThe Lord I say mens thoughts doth scanand findeth them but vaine. |
| 6 The vvidowes vvhich are comfortlesand strangers they destroy :They slay the children fatherlesse,and none doe put them by. | 12 But Lord that man is happy sure,vvhom thou dost keepe in aue :And through correction dost procureto teach him in thy laue.               |
| 7 And vvhenn they take these things inthis talke they haue of thee : (band   |   |

| 13 VVhereby be shall in quiet restin time of trouble sit.VVhen vicked men shall b. suppress,and fall into the pit.            | Thy goodnesse Lord did so provideto stay me vp vwithall.  |
| 14 For sure the Lord vwill not refusehis people so to take :His heritage vvhom he did chuse,he vwill no time forsake.         | 19 VVhen vwith my selfe I mused much,and could no comfort finde :Then Lord thy goodnesse did me teach,and that did ease my minde. |
| 15 Vntill that iudgement be decreedto iustice to conuert :That all may follow her vwith speed,that are of vpright heart.      | 20 VVilt thou inhaunt thy selfe, & drawvwith vicked men to sit ?VVhich vwith pretence in stead of lauemuch mischief doe commit.   |
| 16 But vwho vpon my part shall standagainst the vicked traineOr vwho shall rime from their handsthat vicked worke maintaine : | 21 For they conult against the lifeof righteous men and goed :And in their counsell they are rifeto shed the guiltlesse blond.    |
| 17 Except the Lord had bene mine aidmine enemies to repellMy life and soule had now been laidalmost as low as hell.           | 22 But yet the Lord he is to mea strong defence or lock :He is my God to him I flye,he is my strength and rock.                   |
| 18 VVhen I did say my foot doth slide,and I am like to fall :   | 23 And he shall cause their mischises althemselues for to annoy :And in their malice they shall fall,our God shall them destroy.  |
